

The Burton Talmage Memorial Scholarship

Burton Talmage was first class – a leader and efficient businessman as well as a thoughtful, considerate gentleman and friend. At Utah Technical College, where served for many years in his church and with (N)CRD, he provided leadership with care and class. Burton was the most truly caring person one could know – with a courtly manner and excellent sense of humor, and an innate ability to know what word, deed, or gift each one he knew needed. He epitomized the style of leadership and type of friend most of us could aspire to be.

To perpetuate his memory and recognize his many special characteristics, the CRD Board and his friends established an endowed scholarship fund to provide a full tuition scholarship each year to one of the interns in the Resource Development Specialist Training Program. The individual selected will be one who the Board believes to aspire to those characteristics of leadership, caring and citizenship that we were privileged to know in Burton Talmage.

You may make a gift to the Talmage Endowment on line or via the pledge card available on the website. For more information, contact the CRD national office at 202-822-0750.

APPLICATION is made automatically with the submission of your application to the Resource Development Specialist Training Program. To be eligible for consideration, application must be made prior to commencement of the Annual National Conference.

NOTE:

Individuals cannot apply for acceptance into Resource Development Specialist Training contingent on receiving a scholarship. The Specialist Training application requires a commitment to attend that is signed off by the direct supervisor and the president, and tuition must be paid. All scholarships will be awarded as refunds to paid tuition after the completion of the program.
